Tech Info Library

AppleWorks: Justified indented paragraphs

```
Revised:        5/1/87
Security:       Everyone
```

AppleWorks: Justified indented paragraphs

==

In a Word Processor document, if you format a paragraph with left justification and tabs for the paragraph indentation and then rejustify the paragraph with full justification, the left and right margins stay the same, but the paragraph indentation may change or vary. AppleWorks appears to justify the spaces in the paragraph indentation.

The only workaround is a long process that should be performed only when the document is completed. If a paragraph shows the problem:

1. Separate the first line of that paragraph: move the cursor to the end of the line and press RETURN.

2. Format the line with spaces: place spaces in between words, bringing the line's margins in line with the paragraph's margins.

Tech Info Library Article Number:138