TOPIC-----

Is there a third-party internal fax/modem available for the Macintosh PowerBook 200 (Duo) series computers?

DISCUSSION-----

There are several fax/modem options available to owners of the Macintosh PowerBook 200 series computers. You can use a third party internal modem, an Apple internal modem or an external modem.

We aware of only one third-party internal fax/modem available for these computers which is the Global Village PowerPort Mercury for the PowerBook Duo fax/modem. The Apple solution is the PowerBook Express Modem (finished good part number M4186LL/A). If you would rather not install an internal modem, an external fax/modem can be connected through the external serial port.
