

Tech Info Library

Newton: Assistant Uses Last Written Text (4/94)

Revised: 4/13/94
Security: Everyone

Newton: Assistant Uses Last Written Text (4/94)

=====
Article Created: 12 April 1994

TOPIC -----

When I write in the notepad, then press the Assist button, the last couple of sentences written on the notepad appear in the Assist window. The Newton then tries to interpret the text and fails. Why does the Assistant do this?

DISCUSSION -----

The assistant was designed to take what was last written in a note area and use the text to assist the user. For example, you can write "CALL STEVE" in the notepad and tap assist without highlighting the text. This makes Newton's notepad acts like a slip of paper where you can jot down an instruction and say "do it."

You should tap once somewhere in a blank space area on the notepad and then tap assist if you want the assistant to come up without text in the assistant window.

Support Information Services

Copyright 1994, Apple Computer, Inc

Tech Info Library Article Number:15112